Oxford is a leading global real estate investor, asset manager and builder of businesses. We build, buy and grow defined real estate operating businesses with world-class management teams.

Today, Oxford manages nearly $60 billion of assets across four continents and eight sectors, on behalf of investment partners. We combine our global platform and expertise with local trends and experience to create exceptional value. This scale and breadth is a big competitive advantage, giving us unique perspective and access.

Our environmental, social and governance efforts reflect what matters most to our stakeholders and to us – health and wellness; climate and energy; communities; and materials and resources.

Our leadership team has bought, built, leased, financed and sold some of the world's most successful businesses and properties. Together, they focus on attracting, retaining and empowering the best teams in the business.

Oxford is owned by OMERS, one of Canada's largest defined benefit pension plans.
